INTRODUCTION

Our Commitment

The U.S. Department of the Treasury (Treasury) is committed to providing small, minority-owned and women-owned businesses with contracting opportunities to provide products and services throughout the agency as either prime contractors or subcontractors. Commitment to business diversity starts with its top leadership, as articulated by the Treasury Secretary. It is included in the strategic plan of the Department and progress is monitored by senior management on a regular basis. Additionally, attainment of small business goals is part of the performance objectives of all procurement officials.

Treasury procures a broad array of goods and services -- ranging from metals, inks and paper for the manufacture of coins and currency to information technology, office supplies and janitorial services to support the daily work of its employees. In recent years, Treasury has spent approximately $7 billion annually in contracts. More than one-third of small business eligible dollars have been awarded to small, minority-owned, and women-owned businesses.

What Treasury Buys

The North American Industry Classification System (NAICS) classifies business establishments for the purpose of collecting, analyzing, and publishing statistical data related to the U.S. economy. (Refer to: www.census.gov/eos/www/naics/.) The NAICS industry codes define establishments based on the activities in which they are primarily engaged. The first step in doing business with Treasury is to identify the NAICS codes for the products or services that the business provides and determining if they are aligned with that NAICS codes for what Treasury buys. (To identify your NAICS code, refer to <http://www.naics.com/search/>.)

When the federal government intends to purchase products or services, it identifies the NAICS code that describes the principal purpose of that procurement. A business may have numerous capabilities, and the NAICS code for a given procurement opportunity may not be the same as the primary NAICS code of the business. That will not keep a business from bidding or making an offer, as long as the business meets the size standard for the procurement and has the capacity to provide the products or services.

Treasury buys a variety of products and services to fulfill its mission. Each year, Treasury publishes the TOP 25 NAICS lists for Treasury overall, its headquarters, and each bureau. The TOP 25 NAICS list is a resource that businesses can use to quickly determine if Treasury is spending a considerable amount of its resources within their NAICS code(s) and can assist businesses in determining marketing strategies. Businesses that provide products and/or services within these industry codes are encouraged to market their business capabilities to Treasury. Top NAICS Codes: A Guide for Small, Minority-owned and Women-owned Businesses is designed to assist small, minority, and women-owned business owners in identifying what Treasury buys. It includes list of the top NAICS codes for the U.S. Department of the Treasury overall, as well as for the Treasury Headquarters (Departmental Offices) and individual bureaus. It is intended to serve as a convenient reference tool.

The TOP 25 NAICS lists for Treasury also are published online after the close of the previous fiscal year (after September 30) at: www.treasury.gov/about/organizational-structure/offices/Mgt/Pages/dcfo-osdbu-mp-top25.aspx.)

U.S. Department of the Treasury (Headquarters and Bureaus Combined)

The U.S. Department of the Treasury (Treasury) is the steward of the U.S. economy – taking in revenue, paying bills, and, when appropriate, borrowing and investing public funds. In more recent years, Treasury's role has expanded to being a leader in safeguarding and growing the nation's economy. Treasury is organized into the headquarters (Departmental Offices), operating bureaus, and inspectors general.

Finding Forecasts of Treasury Contract Opportunities

Public Law 100-656, the Business Opportunity Development Reform Act of 1988, amended the Small Business Act to emphasize acquisition planning. The law requires agencies to compile and make available projections of contracting opportunities that small businesses may be able to perform, including Historically Underutilized Business Zone (HUBZone) small businesses and Service Disabled Veteran Owned (SDVOB) small businesses. HUBZone and SDVOB small businesses are encouraged to market their capabilities to Treasury to assist us with our various small business acquisition strategies.

The Department of the Treasury Forecast of Contract Opportunities includes projections of anticipated contract actions above $150,000 that small businesses may be able to perform under direct contracts with Treasury, or perform part of the effort through subcontract arrangements with Treasury's large business prime contractors. For additional information on procurements not expected to exceed $150,000, please contact the appropriate Treasury Bureau Small Business Specialist.

We are committed to increasing prime contract awards and subcontract awards to the small business community. By helping firms identify procurement opportunities as early in the acquisition process as possible, we hope to improve communication with industry and assist the small, minority- and women-owned business community with its marketing efforts.

To see the detailed list of the most recent Forecast of Contract Opportunities go to: <http://www.treasury.gov/resource-center/sb-programs/Pages/dcfo-osdbu-mp-forecast.aspx>
